MORAN DEFENDS PROBATION SYSTEM IN ADDRESS BEFORE KIWANIS CLUB

Reclaimable Offenders Chance to Reform, Which, He Says, Is Better Than Old Method of Severe Penalties Whereby Crime Increased—Much Depends on Court and Officers.

A. Moran, secretary of the State Probation Commission, was the speaker at the Kiwanis Club weekly luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. today, presided over by Judge A. T. Clear, vice-president of the commission.

Since the time when Cain murdered his brother, Abel, crime and repression have been a world problem. It is an ever present fact in our lives. Its cost in dollars and cents cannot be accurately appraised. More than two decades ago it was estimated that our annual cost to crime was six hundred million dollars and statisticians have recently computed a substantial increase. Crime burdens the taxpayers only with the cost of maintaining police, the criminal courts, the penitentiaries, reformatories, and prisons, but it is an element of the whole budget of taxation, and the public problem has aroused little interest as the problem of the individual and the rational treatment of the offender.

If any fact is well established in the world of today, it is this. That crime penalties do not deter from crime and, therefore, do not protect society. We have always had severe penalties and crime has increased. You are skeptical regarding this statement. I suggest that you study the history of crime and the treatment of offenders. Blackstone, in his "Commentaries" in the eighteenth century, described 160 kinds of crime, by death. The records of those days tell of mere children being hung, transported or who in prison, but history also shows during this same period of crime flourished and increased. You will recall that it was capital offense in the eighteenth century in England to pick a pocket, and the great public hangings were being played by the trade in every shadow of the gallows. The Commission on Law Enforcement of the American Bar Association tells us that the situation in England as far as crimes of violence is concerned is worse than in any civilized country. In this country, according to their report, there was respect for law. Each year approximately 9,000 of our citizens die by poison, by the pistol or the knife or by some other unlawful and evil instrument. Burglaries have increased in this country during the last ten years over 1,000 per cent. We lack reliable and adequate statistics regarding crime, but in order that you may have some idea of the magnitude of the crime problem, I tell you that the criminals of this country number approximately one-third of one per cent of the entire population. May I also point out that the percentage of persons convicted of a year for serious offenses against person or property is comparatively small in relation to the number of persons who are arrested for minor offenses?

In New York state the number of persons sent in any year to our state prisons or reformatories represents more than five per cent of the total population. In eighteen years the great majority of commitments to all reformatory institutions, including penitentiaries, workhouses and prisons occurred in 1917, when approximately 120,000 were made. One per cent of this number, however, were committed to state prisons. The vast army of delinquents that appears each year before the courts and is convicted is sentenced to serve short periods of time ranging from thirty days or less to a year or more in county jails or penitentiaries. Only about five per cent of the commitments to county jails are for longer periods than thirty days. There, with few exceptions, the young and old, the first and the habitual offender, are allowed to mingle freely and spend their days in idleness. If we accept the theory that the underlying principle of punishment is not only the protection of society but the reformation of the offender, it can be readily appreciated that commitments to jails or penitentiaries for short periods of time neither protect society nor are they likely to help check the beginning of criminal careers.

We have just experienced another crime wave, and without doubt you have read in your newspapers that the newer and more humane methods of treating offenders, probation, the indeterminate sentence, and parole were a major factor in the breakdown of criminal responsibility, that the individuals responsible for the extension and use of these newer methods of treating offenders were not rational human beings, not your hard-headed business men, but a group of sweet, sentimental souls, busybodies, professional uplifters, whose heads were turned by the softening of law. Nothing, however, could be further from the truth.

Naturally you ask, what, then, is this group stand for? They believe that the old methods of punishing crime have failed; that the old methods did not result in any reformation of offenders; certainly the old methods did not cure crime, and that is even more to be desired, prevent it. Now the fundamental idea of the group who believes in probation is the individual study of the delinquent. Human personality is one of the most sacred things we have upon this earth, and he who tampers with it, be he doctor, lawyer, social worker or business man, has a grave responsibility. We believe that the judge before disposing of an offender, if he is to mete out justice, must have a thorough understanding of the social assets and liabilities of the man or woman before him; that he must have some knowledge of the social background of the offender; a knowledge of his mental and physical condition; that he must make use of the contributions of the newer sciences, psychiatry, psycho-analysis, and the studies that have been made of human behavior. We believe that this knowledge is fundamental if the judge or the layman is to understand the so-called criminal. In these new sciences rather than in the older sciences of criminology and penology, lie the hope for a partial solution at least of our vast crime problem.

During the present century it has been demonstrated that by the application of principles and methods scientifically established by actual experience crime and its cost can be materially decreased and that a large number of offenders can be made law abiding citizens without having to undergo a period of incarceration in a county jail, reformatory or state prison. This corrective substitute for institutional treatment is known as probation.

Probation is a system by which reclaimable offenders are given an opportunity to reform. It is applied to those in whom wrong doing is not habitual and whose youth, previous good character and other circumstances give reasonable hope of reformation. Instead of being committed to an institution these offenders are conditionally released under the friendly supervision of a skilled social worker known as a probation officer. Those placed on probation must carefully observe certain conditions, as for instance, to report regularly to the probation officers, usually once a week, to abstain from evil associates and habits, to work regularly, to pay certain amounts weekly to the probation officers for family support, fines or restitution, or such other conditions as the court may impose. In case of failure to observe such conditions, those on probation may be returned to court and otherwise dealt with. Probation officers keep informed as to their charges and in other ways, and by friendly and helpful means aid them in every way possible to improve their habits and circumstances.

Like any other rational reformatory measure probation has for its object the protection of the community and the reformation of the offender. Probation should be used by the courts only in cases of offenders where an individual study of the delinquent has shown that certain character changes can be effected through probation and that the offender under proper supervision for a definite period of time is likely to become law abiding. Probation is not a panacea for crime nor even a treatment to be applied once in every case. It should not be used indiscriminately for all first offenders, neither should confined or habitual offenders, the confirmed inebriate, drug addicts, the feeble-minded, the psychopathic or the insane be placed on probation.

Now there is nothing strange or mysterious in the work of a probation officer. The well trained and efficient officer works in much the same manner as a physician. He carefully studies the assets and liabilities of each personality under his direction and makes a plan of treatment that will bring the probation period to a successful issue. The social conditions or anti-social habits that were responsible for the delinquent's appearance in court. Unless the probation officer has some standard regarding what probation should accomplish in each individual case, probation supervision is likely to be ineffectual and lifeless. This careful planning which I mention is not a theoretical idea but is actually being done in a number of courts in this state where probation work has reached a high level of efficiency.

The superiority of home oversight for certain well defined classes of offenders to any form of prison discipline is now generally accepted. Each year since 1901, when the first probation law was enacted, the courts have released an increasing number of offenders on probation. Last year approximately 22,000 persons were placed on probation. Of this number 15,000 were adults and approximately 7,000 were children under the age of sixteen. A total of 20,679 finished probation during the year, of whom 75.9 per cent made good and were discharged as entirely successful. Only 10 per cent of the total number on probation during the year were rearrested for violating the terms of probation and committed to institutions.

The increasing use of probation each year is due to two main types of offenders—children and non-supporting and deserting husbands. It is with these family cases that the probation officers, the social workers of the court, have rendered real service.

HARDING BECOMES FIRST AMERICAN PRESIDENT TO VISIT CANADIANS

Points to 100 Years of Peace Along Border as Object Lesson to Jealous, Bickering Europe—No Desire to Annex Canada—Canada Well Enough Off Now Without Taking Over U. S.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Vancouver, B. C. July 26.—President Harding made history today. He came to Canada—the first American president ever to set foot on Canadian soil, with an inspiring message of American friendship and peace which has existed more than 100 years on no firmer foundation than a scrap of paper.

This enduring record of Canadian-American peace—peace maintained without frontier fortifications or warlike display along the Great Lakes—affords an object lesson to the entire world, President Harding declared in his first speech in Canadian territory, delivered before a distinguished audience at Stanley Park.

Particularly, President Harding asserted, the Canadian-American picture of contentment and prosperity without quarrelling or armings, should provide a great moral lesson to those European countries that continually criticize and envy North American prosperity, yet who consistently refuse to take the medicines which would cure their ills and provide them with similar peace and prosperity.

"Only European countries would heed the lesson conveyed by Canada and the United States," declared the president, "they would strike at the root of their own continued disagreements and in their own prosperity, forget to inveigh constantly at ours."

"That we would reproach them for their resentment and envy," continued the president, "after all is but a manifestation of human nature but rather should we sympathize with their seeming inability to break the shackles of age-long methods and rejoice in our own relative freedom from the stultifying effect of old world customs and practices. We are not pained by the habits of thousands of years. Others derive satisfaction from contemplating their repellent pasts. We have relatively only the present to regard, with eager eyes, fixed chiefly upon our future."

President Harding said we have no "departed greatness" to recover, no "lost provinces" to regain, no new territory to covet, no ancient grudges to "erase eternally at the heart of our national conscience." The president mentioned no names in citing these oft-used causes for war but the application to central Europe was unmistakable.

The president referred to England as the motherland, to Canada and the United States as sister lands and told his audience "the ancient bugaboo of the United States scheming to annex Canada disappeared from all our minds years ago." Continuing, he said: "Heaven knows, we have all we can manage now," then added humorously "if I might offer a word of advice to you it would be: don't encourage any enterprise looking to Canada's annexation of the United States. You are one of the most capable governing peoples in the world but I entreat you for your own sakes think twice before undertaking the management of the territory between the Great Lakes and the Rio Grande."

"No; let us go our own gait along parallel roads, you helping us and we helping you. So long as each country maintains its independence and both recognize interdependence, these roads cannot fail to be highways of progress. Nationally will continue to be the supreme factor in modern existence but the day of the Chinese wall enclosing the hermit nation has passed forever."

"Our very prophetic enjoins faith and good fellowship. It is in this spirit I have stopped enroute home to visit you, our good neighbors, glorious in your youth, strength and beauty. I stretch forth my arms in fraternal greeting with gratefulness for your splendid welcome in my heart and from my lips the whispered prayer of our famed Rip Van Winkle's, may you live long and prosper."

PREPARED BY RALPH F. COUCH

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

GEORGIE'S TALKS

George Green Frog had been talking to many old and wise frogs and he had been asking them how he could become a more successful frog.

He had been doing very well. In the first place he was a sensible frog now and had outgrown all his foolish ways, and he had made a very careful study of all the best ways to catch flies and bugs without any effort.

To be sure he was willing to make an effort, but he didn't want to do more than he had to do, and it was pleasant to be able to sit on a stump and day-dream and nap and yet be able to awaken all of a sudden to get a little meal.

He was very clever at catching these delicious little meals that flew by him or stopped for a moment on his nose, not realizing what a careless thing that was for them to do. But still he wanted to be as successful a frog as ever a frog had been.

So he asked the old frogs around what had been the things they had done which had made them so successful. He stopped and talked with many a powerful and splendid frog, frogs who had been very clever and very wise and very successful. And he found that the pathways to success were not always smooth and straight and direct, sometimes they were hard, but they made the successes so worth while.

He found many of the frogs who were so successful were not in the least snobbish. They were not conceited. They were pleasant and had most engaging manners. And they were all glad to talk to George Green Frog because they wanted to see the family of frogs become more and more famous and they thought perhaps it would help others to hear of their experiences.

They told him not to pay any attention to enemies and not to be too sensitive. Creatures often would not be any too kindly in what they would say when a creature was starting out. And he must not mind discouragements. They said that the more creatures pulled together, the better it was for everyone. And they told him that hard work and thought and patience were of great help.

So after George Green Frog had heard all the wise old frogs talk he went forth on that brilliantly sunny day, a day so bright and cheerful and warm that George felt the whole world was smiling with him about his plans and his dreams of becoming a splendid big leader frog, a frog everyone would respect and admire.

He went about and saw how the frogs were situated and helped them with their pond homes and admired the views they had and listened with pleasure to their stories of adventures and success.

He admired all the children and he thought the mothers about were of the best. He passed all about the pond and everyone seemed glad to have him as their leader, too, for though he was about to be their leader, they knew he would not be a conceited, mean leader. They knew he would be a real leader. For once George Green Frog had been conceited and silly and then he had gone away.

The Pond Fairy had taken him to visit the Shons, whose name when spelt the other way around is Snobs. They lived at Gums Landing, which really means Smug Landing.

And George had become disgusted with it in no time at all and ever since then he had been such a nice friendly, sensible frog, joining in all the frog activities.

He enjoyed singing in the Frog Glee club, which in the olden days he had been too proud to do. Oh yes, George Green Frog was a splendid frog, and that night, following the day when George had been around to see all of them, they decided to have a Frog Parade in his honor.

They sang and they croaked and the Frog band played, and one frog acted as Drum Major and carried a splendid stick which he tossed up in the air in a magnificent fashion.

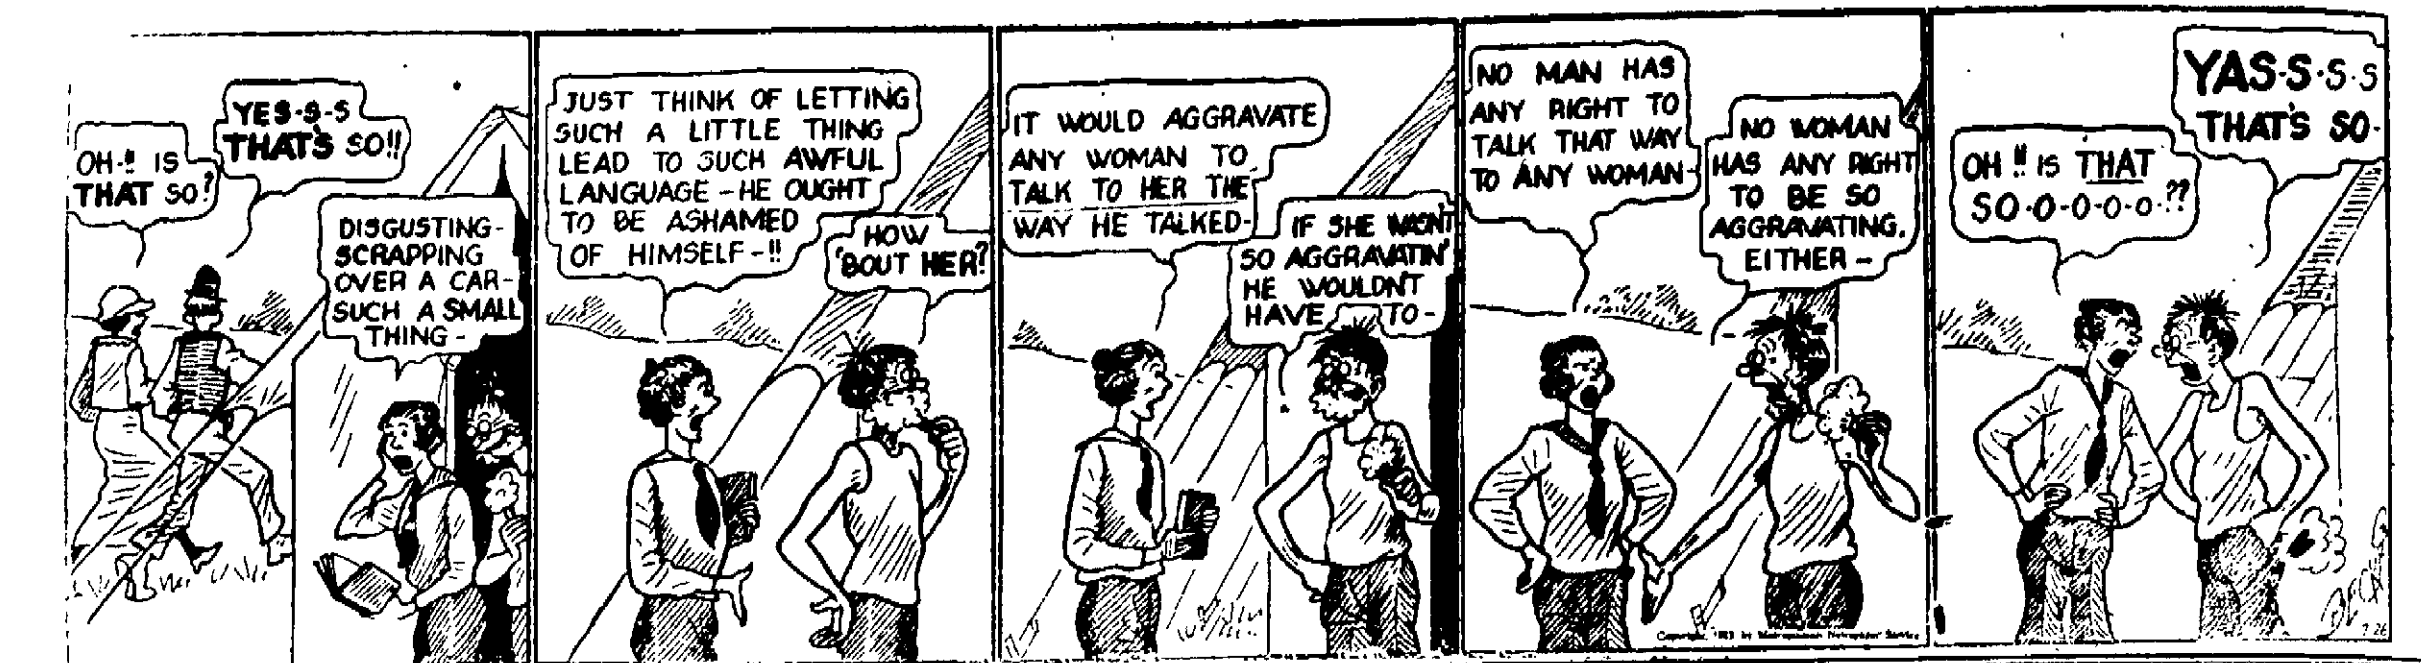

And oh, how delighted George Green Frog was when the parade came and stood outside his stump and said:

"We've come to honor our Frog Leader, George Green Frog is our leader. He's a frog very well worth while. He's a frog with an ever-ready smile. 'Gee-a-room, gee-a-room, gee-a-room. We've come to honor our Frog Leader.'"

"We've come to honor our Frog Leader, George Green Frog is our leader. He's a frog very well worth while. He's a frog with an ever-ready smile. 'Gee-a-room, gee-a-room, gee-a-room. We've come to honor our Frog Leader.'"

SEASONABLE DISHES

Take a small-sized ripe red tomato, round in shape and peel, leaving some of the peeling at the base. Now cut with four slashes way to the base, leaving a tulip-shaped tomato. Fill with chopped celery, nuts or cucumber with a good salad dressing well-mixed into it. Garnish the top of the flower with a bit of the dressing and a small half of a walnut. Serve with graham bread cut into oblongs on which are placed the same shaped pieces of cheese.

Cinnamon Toast.—This is very popular as a tea accompaniment and may be prepared on the electric toaster at the tea table. Spread thin slices of the toast with butter and cover with a mixture of cinnamon and powdered sugar. Allow the toast to stand until it becomes saturated with the melting mixture.

The most delicious iced tea is prepared from freshly brewed hot tea. Pour the tea over a large piece of ice and serve poured over cracked ice in tall glasses. Serve with preserved pineapple, sliced lemon or clear with sugar.

The tea wagon is a valuable piece of furniture for the porch tea or meal. For the housekeeper without a maid it is a great step saver as well as, when nicely laid, an ornament to the occasion. The design with folding leaves will carry the entire service. The lower shelf can be used for plates, glasses and extra dishes.

Best Lima Beans.—Take two cups of fresh lima beans, add one medium-sized green pepper, onion and carrot, chopped. Cook in boiling water until tender, then salt, reserving when draining one-half cupful of the liquor. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, pepper and salt to taste, then add one-half cupful of the liquor and the same amount of milk; cook until smooth, pour over the vegetables and serve hot. Any liquor not used may be reserved for soup for another meal.

Brown bread toasted and spread thinly with jelly or jam makes tasty open sandwiches to serve with tea.

BELGIUM AND FRANCE IN ACCORD

Compromise Differences and Will Have Reply Ready For Britain in Day or Two.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, July 26.—France and Belgium have reached a satisfactory compromise upon their differences of opinion over reparations and occupation of the Ruhr, the Petit Journal announced today. The differences were not serious, but put obstacles in the way of negotiations for a joint reply to the British reparations note. While France and Belgium will make a common reply to Great Britain, it is likely that these documents will be handed to the British foreign office within two or three days.

Premier Poincaré feels the negotiations with Brussels and London have progressed far enough to permit him to spend the week end at his country home at Sampligny. He plans to return to Paris early next week for a conference with Premier Thounis, of Belgium.

CORNS—stop their pain in one minute!

Zino-pads—Dr. Scholl's new discovery—give immediate relief from pain while removing the cause. Easily applied; scientific; sure; and absolutely safe. Special sizes for corns, callouses and bunions.

Wonderful for callouses or tender spots on sole. Special shape for bunions. Easily applied. Will stay in place.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads

Made in the laboratories of The Scholl Mfg. Co., makers of Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Appliances, Arch Supports, etc.

Put one on—the pain is gone!

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads protect while they heal—wholly new method. Absolutely safe!

Corns are due to only one cause—friction-pressure. Heretofore, corn-sufferers have ignored this.

They have risked infection by cutting their own corns, or they have used corrosive acids to eat away the dead tissue, frequently with damaging results to the surrounding live tissue.

A famous foot specialist's new discovery

Now Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, the eminent foot specialist, has found in Zino-pads a vastly better way, a scientific way, to end corn troubles—by removing the cause.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads not only stop the pain the minute applied but they protect the corn from pressure and friction while they heal! They are easy to apply, are thin, antiseptic, waterproof. Absolutely safe; will not injure the tenderest toe.

Special sizes for callouses and bunions, too. Try Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads. Nothing like them. At your druggist's or shoe dealer's.

EX-CROWN PRINCE BECOMES ACTIVE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 26.—The former German crown prince is becoming "mysteriously active," said a Hague dispatch to the Evening News today. It is alleged in some quarters that a monarchist plot is brewing. A yacht flying the old German imperial standard and bearing a crew wearing uniforms of the old German navy put into port at Wieringen, where the ex-crown prince is living in exile. William boarded the yacht and conferred at length with mysterious personages on board. Later he listened to Doorn where his father, the former Kaiser, is living in exile. The subsequent movements of the yacht are not known.

ROTARY CLUB'S REPORT DAY

Boys Sent To Scout Camp—Club Continues Aid For Crippled Children, Need of Which Was Indicated At Recent Concl.

Reports of various committees and of A. L. Harder, the delegate to the Rotary international convention in St. Louis, took the place of a speaker at the Rotary luncheon on Wednesday. Al. Danister, past president, and Oscar Marbridge, both of Newark, N. J., were visitors.

J. Edward Derrinbacher was appointed a committee to gather a team to participate in the barnyard golf tournament at the Farm Bureau picnic on August 18, and instructed to organize a team that would bring home the cup.

S. D. Souder, chairman of the committee on boys' work, reported that five of the boys had been entertained for two weeks at the Boy Scout camp, where they had a bully time. Mr. Souder also reported progress in arranging for the concert on Saturday, September 1. There will be a band concert in the afternoon and in the evening a short concert to be followed by a dance. Dancing to the music of a band of 50 pieces will be a novelty that it is thought will appeal to those who love this form of exercise.

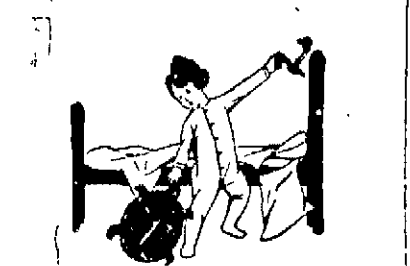

Dr. Mark O'Meara reported on the recent clinic for crippled children that the county had been thoroughly combed and about 30 children brought in for examination. Most of these had received attention before the clinic, but some of them needed more care in the way of braces, minor operations, etc. Four or five had been found who had received no treatment. The history of each case was recorded, recommendations made and would be followed up. In a few cases there would be need for financial aid in procuring braces or for transportation to a hospital, which will be provided by the Rotary Club. A copy of the full written report was filed with the club records.

A. L. Harder, who represented the club at the St. Louis convention, gave an interesting report of his adventures in the heat that was so intense as to remove all fear of the heat. Of St. Louis hospitality Mr. Harder spoke very highly, of the hotel accommodations not so highly, but of the transportation to his hotel very highly indeed.

A Letter

(By a town man to his wife in the country.)

Dear Flo—Your 5 letters came this a. m. I happened to notice them in the mail box as I was leaving for work. That's the mail service for you. Well how is everything in the country? Say by the way, did you know that you went away and left the electric iron on in the kitchen? It's a wonder everything didn't burn down but the back porch, thanks to the ice man. What shall I do with all the milk that's here? 5 quarts milk and 2 qts. cream? Do we use that much every day? When I opened the back door tonight to whistle for your cat, there they were (the milk) I found the cat curled up asleep in the canary cage, so now I won't have to feed either of 'em. In your first letter the 1st thing you ask for is a check and your hair brush that you forgot. I've found the brush and you ought to get it in a couple of days. What will I do about soap? I scouted up a couple of pairs in the wash basket but they ain't ironed. Where do you keep the bees wax? I didn't get home from work tonight in time to go to the store but I found a can of salmon in the pantry. I made a bum job of trying it, but I boiled some potatoes in the skins, and made some toast from a half loaf of bread that got kind of hard and heated up some coffee from this a. m. and it all tasted pretty good. Don't worry none about me or the house, everything o. k. and take it easy and rest.

Your affec' hus' Hank.
P. s.—When are you coming home?

EXPOSITION SPACE OVER HALF TAKEN

Over 50,000 Feet of Space in This Year's Tent So Arranged As To Make It More Convenient For 25,000 Visitors That Are Expected.

Already over half of the spaces for the exposition which will be held at the Kingston Fair Grounds, Inc., from August 27 to September 1 inclusive, have been disposed of and the committee in charge of the exposition has received inquiries from several national advertisers who desire to secure space for an exhibit. Kingston and Ulster county manufacturers and dealers should communicate immediately with either M. H. Herzog or Mr. Coe of the Chamber of Commerce if they desire to be represented at the exposition. The committee in charge of the affair feel that Ulster county manufacturers and dealers should be given preference before concerns outside the county were allotted space.

The tent which has already been contracted for from the Martin Tent Company of New York will have over 50,000 square feet of floor space and the arrangement this year will be much better than last season. The arrangement of the exhibits will be in the form of a hollow square. There will be no center booths and the aisles will be twenty feet wide instead of 11 feet as last year. This will give ample room to care for the crowds without the congestion which marked the record days last season when thousands crowded into the tent to visit the exhibits. The booths will be shown to better advantage with the wider aisle.

Another feature of the arrangement this year will be that the longest point from the entrance gate to the entertainment stage will not exceed 350 feet while last year the distance was nearly 900 feet. This will relieve congestion and at the same time show off the spaces of the exhibitors to better advantage.

The big tent will be delivered and erected three days prior to the opening of the exposition so as to give every exhibitor ample time to arrange the display.

All exhibitors will have permission this year to sell and take orders for any merchandise which is exhibited and there will be no special concessions this year for sale. Every exhibitor will be allowed to sell such goods as is on display and there will be no extra charge for this. The regular charge for space will be $65 for the first space with 10 per cent discount for two spaces, 15 per cent for three spaces and 20 per cent discount for over three connecting spaces. The spaces this year will have a frontage of 12 feet with a depth of nine feet.

A meeting of the committee in charge of the exposition will be held this afternoon when final arrangements will be made and several small details talked over.

Last season there were 15,200 paid admissions to the exposition in spite of the lateness of the season and the extreme cold. This season with the exposition earlier and with warmer and more favorable weather it is expected that the 25,000 mark will be reached. With this number of people visiting the exposition every manufacturer or dealer in Kingston and Ulster county should endeavor to have his goods on exhibition and show out-of-town people what a wide variety of business is conducted in the county.

Of course there will be entertainment each day of the exposition. The entertainment program will be in charge of a professional artist who is now making arrangements for a bill for the entire week.

The decorating committee has promised to eclipse anything which has yet been seen in the way of tent decorations.

With but a limited amount of time left to close for space the committee requests that all those who desire to be represented at the exposition communicate immediately with either Mr. Herzog or Mr. Coe.

First Microscope Made In 1590

Although the early history of the microscope is obscure, the first microscope is generally believed to have been made by Zachariah Jansen, a Dutchman, in 1590. The invention is also attributed to Galileo about 1610. Microscopes with double glasses appeared soon after the discovery of the law of the refraction of light, about 1624; but it was not until the invention of the achromatic lens, and its application to the microscope by Lister and others, that the instrument became of positive value in the cause of science. The binocular microscope was invented by Professor Riddell in 1851.

Effect of Music on Work.

A recent psychological experiment was to determine the effect of music on men at work in an architectural drawing room. A phonograph was used to supply the music. Nearly all the men declared that the music made the work easier. They preferred instrumental music to vocal, and familiar music to unfamiliar. Frequent short periods of music seemed to give the best results.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, July 26.—Wednesday evening, July 18, was a gala night for Ida McKinley Council, No. 65 Daughters of America, for at that time the installation of the officers for the term of six months took place. Mrs. Ella Snow was appointed by the state council as the D. S. C., and was the presiding officer and did her work very efficiently. Councilor Mrs. Hartshorn opened in due form and business was transacted and receiving state and other officers was gone through by the degree team and captain with credit to themselves and council. Mrs. Auchmoody and Mrs. Eckert, of Vanderlyn Council, Kingston, acted as marshals of the installation. Daniel Kurtz was installed as a past councilor. Mrs. Kurtz and Mrs. Graham were the committee on decorations, which were flowers and flag bunting, which was very effective. The refreshments of peach sherbet, delicious cake and Russian feed tea were under the supervision of Miss Bertha Dimsey, with Mrs. Lorin Ostrom as assistant and Walter Consolo, who was very adept at dishing sherbet. Mrs. Snow gave interesting remarks in regard to work, which were appreciated by all. Councilor Mrs. Hartshorn presented to her a box containing a set of silver salad forks and she acknowledged the council's gift with very appropriate remarks. Then several from Kingston Saugerties and Poughkeepsie were called upon and responded, cleverly, upon work throughout various councils and the duty of all in making a success of the council. Mrs. Philip Schantz is the proficient pianist and is always ready to assist in the noble work. No. 65 of this place is the home council of the Hudson valley. Her home council fully appreciate the honor. On Wednesday evening, August 1, there will be initiation and we hope to see every member present and Dr. Master D. Kurtz requests all of the team members to be out dressed in white and ready to do their duty. This order was founded with unselfish motives, with benevolent purposes from which it has never deviated. Its business policy is both conservative and progressive and it promptly fulfills every fraternal and financial obligation as fast as they mature. So once again, members, get out to the meetings. If you remain home you are going to miss something. Do not be a kicker but be a booster. August 1, just get to the lodge room on time and after work is concluded have a social time. Any "stay-at-home" just analyze the word "hustle."

Soaking takes the place of rubbing

Just by soaking in the suds of this new soap, dirt is gently loosened and dissolved.

Even the dirt that is ground-in at cuff edges, hems, and neck bands is so loosened by soaking in Rinso suds, that it comes out with only a light rubbing. Do that light rubbing with Rinso. A little sprinkled on the worst spots will make them disappear.

Not a thread is weakened. The mild cleansing suds work gently through and through the clothes without injury to a single fibre.

IDENTITY IS IN DOUBT

War Patient in Toledo (Ohio) Hospital May Be Martin Lyons or Bert Jordan.

Martin Lyons, a patient in the Toledo (O.) hospital for the insane, soldier of the United States army from 1917, or is he the man whose name he has at times claimed—Bert Jordan, a World War veteran? This is the question which has puzzled the authorities of the American Legion and other agencies for the relief of ex-service men since the man was found wandering about the streets of Toledo two years ago.

As Lyons, he has been identified by War department as having served in the army in 1915. Finger prints filed in the establishment of this identification.

When discovered in Toledo he gave the name of Bert Jordan. War department officials have been an officer of the World War Cards and letters in the man's name have been sent. Since then he has become paralyzed and lost use of voice and hands, but has indicated his correct name was Martin Lyons. He once claimed California as his home state, and when found a photograph of a Salt Lake City (Utah) restaurant in his pocket. Through the agency of the Red Cross has been determined that such a man was a patient in a Stockton (Calif.) hospital, but was discharged. He is then thought to have enlisted in the United States army at Alameda, Calif., in 1915, but was shipped two months later as "mentally deficient."

He is now hopelessly bedridden, due to the paralytic affliction, and is in the Toledo institution, the ward of the American Legion Auxiliary, who believe that he is a World War veteran. The injury which caused his illness is due to a depression of the left side of the skull, but his arm was wrenched to elbow shows signs of a grafting. The man claims this resulted from service in France.

about six feet in height, the man is a splendid physique, weighing in the neighborhood of 190 pounds. He has sandy hair, blue eyes and strong, red features. When found he stated that he was thirty-three years of age, but indicated since that he has two brothers and two sisters. Any information as to the man's identity or as to his family should be sent to Mrs. C. Conrad, 1207 East Broadway, Toledo, O., chairman of the hospital committee of the Ohio department of the American Legion Auxiliary.

TO PREVENT AIRPLANE FIRES

Mr. Gose and Others of Committee on Aeronautics Invent Fireproof Gasoline Tank.

Having lost his right leg and suffered severe injuries caused by a burning airplane in the World War, Mr. Henry Gose of Washington, D. C., a member of the American Legion's national committee on aeronautics, with other aviators, who had received similar injuries, set to work to devise a system to eliminate the dangers that caused their injuries.

The result was the invention of a fireproof gasoline tank, containing a persistent chemical which extinguishes any fire that may start from a leak in the gasoline tank system. A rubber flask containing acid is installed over the engine of the airplane. As fuel releases its acid as soon as a certain temperature has been reached. The invention is built in the same manner as a thermostat is constructed.

Mr. Gose entered the service at Fort Lee, Virginia. He served for a time as a battery of field artillery until he was transferred to the aviation service. He received training with the American Royal Flying corps at Fort Totten, and completed his course at Fort Worth, Texas. Commissioned a first lieutenant, he went overseas with the twenty-second aero squadron. Later he was detached for service with the British Royal Flying corps. It was while he was with the British that he suffered the accident.

Flying at an altitude of between 500 and 600 feet, a sheet of flame shot from underneath the front gasoline tank of his plane. Lieutenant Gose immediately put the machine into a steep climb to get the flames out, and also make a landing. The plane crashed on one wing and the pilot was pinned to the burning wreckage. Struggling to get free from the blazing plane, he broke both legs in the attempt. Meanwhile the fire was burning around his head and body. Eventually, comrades, taking their lives, succeeded in pulling the lieutenant from the plane. That was left of his right leg had to be amputated.

"My thought during the 19 months I was in the hospital was to find a fire-proofing equipment that would save other flyers from my own experience," Lieutenant Gose stated. An organizer of the American Legion post at Bristol, Va., Lieutenant Gose has been connected with the ex-service organization since the early days of its existence.

"Hard" and "Soft" Maple. Maple is both "hard" and "soft." The hard maple is in demand wherever resistance and great strength are required. For most home-keeping bowls, serving plates, etc., maple is used in making them. Butter bowls and serving boards.

VETERAN HAS LOST MEMORY

American Legion is Seeking Friends of Man Supposed to Be "Howard Grimes."

Physically and mentally normal, with the one exception of amnesia or memory loss, "Howard Grimes," a veteran of the World War, is endeavoring to recall his past history. "Grimes" is a patient in the Charity hospital of New Orleans while his comrades of the American Legion are searching for relatives or friends.

Suddenly attacked at a motion picture theater with convulsions, the missing man was taken to the hospital. In his pockets were found business cards with the name, "Howard Grimes," and the title, "state distributor for the Alco Film Tool company, P. O. Box 4457, Jacksonville, Fla." Communications to that address resulted in the discovery that the box had been closed and that no one in Jacksonville knew of such a company.

In his clouded memory there are flashes of the vision of a tropical land, of men in big straw hats and white clothes, and unshaven faces. The Woolworth building of New York looms in his memory. In a diary he keeps appear engineering notes, columns of figures. His soft hands attest to the fact that he has not done manual labor for some time, if ever. He is puzzled that he shaves and uses a telephone automatically, though he has no memory of razors or telephones in his past.

Anyone who recognizes the man is asked to communicate with A. M. Daspit, chairman of the service division of the Legion in New Orleans.

IN EFFORT TO EDUCATE ALL

Legion Department Commander of Arkansas is Carrying Gospel to Every Section of State.

O. L. Bodenhammer, department commander of the American Legion in Arkansas, is making a determined effort to aid in bringing about education of men, women and children. Bodenhammer has been carrying the gospel of education into every section of his state, and has aroused the interest of the citizenry in the question.

One of the most interesting phases of the campaign has been the work of the Legion leader with the school children of the state. At one meeting in Fort Smith, Mr. Bodenhammer spoke to 2,000 school children using patriotism as his theme.

"Ten million American-born men and women now in this country are not able to read and write," he told the children. "The American Legion stands for better education as protection to the future citizens of America."

Following the address, a stand of national colors was presented to the school as a gift from the local Legion post.

At a recent conference of educational officials of southern states on illiteracy, Commander Bodenhammer declared that illiteracy stood opposed to the development of a patriotic citizenship; that it was detrimental to the building of a citizenship of defenders; that it prevented a voting citizenship; and that it impeded the progress of a law-abiding citizenship.

POST ADOPTS SCOUT TROOP

New Jersey Boys, Aided by Ex-Service Men's Organization, Enjoy Field Day Program.

A boy scout troop, composed of newboys of Trenton, N. J., was formally adopted by the Ekins Oliphant post of the American Legion. The boys took great interest in their scout work and were particularly intent on joining in the annual scout field day, which was to be held on an island in the river.

But if the boys left their posts throughout the day, it meant considerable financial loss to them, so they turned to the Legion men for help. The Legionnaires solved the problem in a very happy way for all concerned. Enlisting the aid of a local newspaper, a special Legion edition was arranged on the day of the meet, and the post members took over the boys' routes and corners. The lads were promised the full amount of their regular earnings, with the understanding that any money over would go to the scout fund to purchase uniforms for the troop. Citizens of Trenton supported the edition and $300 was earned for the fund. In the meantime the boys were down on the river passing scout tests and otherwise enjoying themselves.

Gloves Long in Use. Gloves were worn by the Egyptian men as early as the Eighteenth dynasty, but there seems to be no evidence that women wore them at all. A pair of 16-button length were found in the tomb of Tut-Akh-Amen for his use in the future world.

MORAN DEFENDS PROBATION SYSTEM

As a result of their splendid work they are called the "doctors of domestic difficulties." Through experience they have gained both knowledge and skill in diagnosing and treating family troubles. The results are that family "squabbles" have been settled, husbands and fathers have worked regularly, and proper care has been given to children.

Before probation was used the non-supporting or deserting husband was usually sent to jail and his family suffered from lack of the necessities of life or became objects of charity. The non-supporting or deserting husband of today instead of being sent to jail is placed on probation and it is the business of the probation officer to see that the probationer works regularly and that he makes adequate financial provision for the support of his family. Through the probation system last year a total of two and a half million dollars was collected from probationers and paid over to the support of families.

Leaving the best interests of the offender out of consideration, it is wise to use probation in suitable cases for purely financial considerations. The average per capita cost of a year's probation is 1.15 of the actual expense of a year's imprisonment. The use of probation has been a major factor in decreasing the number of commitments to penal and reformatory institutions. The probation population of the state exceeds the population of all public correctional institutions by approximately 4,000. The use of probation as a substitute for institutional treatment is actually saving the taxpayers of the state thousands of dollars each year.

I have made no effort to appeal to your emotions by the telling of so-called "sob stories" nor have I tried to give you details regarding the parts enacted by probation officers in the private and public life of the state. I have stressed the use of probation in children's cases because I believe that the need for individual studies of adult offenders is even more important in the case of children who appear before the courts.

Probation has passed through the testing or experimental stage in New York state. It has proven to be both socially and financially profitable.

But you must remember that a person is placed on probation after he has committed and been convicted of an anti-social act. Must we continue to wait until individuals commit crimes before they receive attention?

To misquote Omar, today we know that more than one thing is certain, and the rest are not. We know that our future law breakers, our prostitutes and our murderers will be recruited from the boys and girls of today.

We continue to spend millions of dollars a year insuring the harm after the harm has been done but we spend practically nothing to prevent the theft. Our aim is to be much like that of the insurance company, to prevent the loss before it occurs.

KOUHOUTS ARE TO LIVE APART

The Wife Being Allowed the Furniture and Her Husband to Pay Her Weekly Sum—Other Police Court Cases.

This morning in police court Judge Schurick held the case of John Kouhout of No. 15 DeWitt street, charged with assaulting his wife, open until Monday morning. This was done as the Kouhouts came to the conclusion that it would be best for them to live apart and they are to sign an agreement of separation. Under the terms of the agreement the wife is to have the furniture and her husband is to contribute a certain sum each week toward her support. Mrs. Kouhout and her husband are also to leave each other strictly alone.

The husband was arrested Monday evening by the wife and turned over to Officer Welch on a charge of assault in the third degree. The hearing had been adjourned to this morning when a further adjournment was taken with the understanding that if both parties lived up to the agreement that the charge of assault would be withdrawn by the wife.

Alfred Fruchman of New York, arrested for parking his car in a restricted area, was fined $2.

John Duffy, Matthew Hanrahan and Conrad Shea, three young men arrested Wednesday afternoon by Officer Schurick on a charge of disorderly conduct on West street, were each given ten minutes to get out of town.

HONK FALLS POWER 3-CAR TANGLE NEAR GLENERIE

Autos Of Kushner And Burger Collide And Another Runs Into Burger's—None Injured.

Three cars in a mixup on the Saugerties road just beyond the Glenrie falls Wednesday evening about 10 o'clock caused the sheriff's office to send out its force to make an investigation. Sheriff Kolts, undersheriff Haulenbeck, Deputy Sheriff Jocelyn and Deputy Sheriff Bongartz responded to the call and found that a car of Max Kushner of 349 Washington avenue had been run into by a Ford car of Charles Burger of 36 New street and that a third car which was closely following the Burger car had been unable to stop when the Burger car and the Kushner car came together and had come in collision with the rear of the Burger car. The third car was not injured and pulled away and continued on the trip.

When the sheriff arrived he found that the Kushner car had evidently been well over to the right hand side of the road and that the Burger car had collided with him.

In the Kushner car were four adults beside the driver and two children. The car, an Overland four, was not badly damaged and was able to continue on its way. The Ford of Burger had the front end smashed and the back was also damaged where it had been run into by the third car. Andrew Burger, a brother of the driver, was in the Ford which bore license number 1-227-807. No one was injured.

Immediately after the accident and while a large crowd of spectators were viewing the wreck a car came along at a terrific rate of speed and pushed through the crowd without slackening its pace, endangering the lives of several persons who were standing along the road.
